CERTIFICATE OF DEPENDENCY For Individual Health Benefit Plans

An unmarried child is eligible for coverage if he/she meets the dependent eligibility requirements of the contract. In most cases, the child must be dependent on the contract holder for at least 50% of their support.

The following is an eligible child (check applicable box):

- The contract holder's natural child.
- A child related to the contract holder by blood or marriage for whom the contract holder is the legal guardian. (The contract holder will need to give us a court order showing legal guardianship.)
- The contract holder's adopted child, a child placed for adoption with the contract holder*, a child of the spouse or domestic partner living in the contract holder's home, or non-resident spouse or domestic partner if there is a qualified medical child support order that requires the spouse or qualified domestic partner to provide health insurance coverage.

* a separate Certificate of Placement must be submitted
